"THE ROUNDERS."

A chorus romance is hidden in the auxiliary ranks of "The Rounders," the new Casino opera vaudeville, which Comedian Thomas Q. Seabrooke brings here Friday night, November 9, and Saturday matinee, November 10, at Sweeney & Coombs opera house, 10 in arm in the rank of extras at certain points of the ensembles are a husband and wife—both young. Five years ago the first was appearing on the stage for the first time. In the audience every night was a youth, wealthy, well connected and infatuated with her, having known her before circumstances forced her to the footlights for a livelihood. The young man was a stock broker. He finally asked the girl to marry him. She refused. "When I have as much money as you, or you have as little as I, I will accept you," was her answer. A few months later fortune had turned the young man into a beggar. He held the girl to her promise. They were wed at once. For a time the young man tried his hand again at his old business, but couldn't get his old footing. Love was stronger than commerce and failing to find a place in his old life for his new wife, he adopted the calling of the woman he had selected of all the world. The two are now living a beautiful married life, far as professional life permits. Of course, they have their dreams of greater things than the chorus, but the young man says he is happier now than when he was alone and a broker, and the girl says she is just as happy now and then and out because it gave her a husband. And there you are.

"THE STAR BOARDER."

From the Indianapolis Sentinel of September 23.

"The Star Boarder" a clever farce, began a very big engagement at the Park yesterday afternoon, playing to a crowded house. The company interpreting the piece now at the Park is unusually capable. Charles H. Boyle heads the list and furnishes a lion's share of the entertainment, with his diversity of specialties, including his great hit, "Souza, the March King." Mr. Boyle is ably assisted by Miss Belle Mead, who sings the best of the specialties is furnished by May Orletta, who sings "The Holy City" in costume. Miss Orletta has a remarkable fine voice, which she uses to great advantage in "The March King." The hit of Rogers Brothers' show last season, was given by Messrs. Boyle and Holmes and Miss Sue Belle Mead with pleasing effect. Another hit was "Ma Tontine," a comparatively new "coon" song. The cakewalk and terpsichorean movements accompanying the rendition of this vocal number were delightful.

The costumes shown in "The Star Boarder" are very rich and handsome and contribute not a little to the success of the entertainment. The choruses are excellent, a fact due largely to the labors of Miss Orletta, who sings the hit of Rogers Brothers' show last season, was given by Messrs. Boyle and Holmes and Miss Sue Belle Mead with pleasing effect. Another hit was "Ma Tontine," a comparatively new "coon" song. The cakewalk and terpsichorean movements accompanying the rendition of this vocal number were delightful.

The above comedy will be seen at Sweeney & Coombs' opera house, matinee today and tonight.

The Hollow Bones of Birds.

Popular Science Monthly. The hollow bones of birds are frequently cited as beautiful instances of providential mechanism in building the strongest and lightest possible structure, and this is largely true. And yet birds, like ducks, which cleave the air with the speed of an express, and the long bones filled with marrow or saturated with fat, while the lumbering, heavy, fairly heavy over the trees, have hollow bones, permeated with air to the very tips, and the unsuitability is nearly as well illustrated by the turkey buzzard, a creature which is most at ease when on the wing, have extremely light and hollow bones, but containing no marrow, and the paramount importance of a pneumatic skeleton to a bird is not as evident as that of a pneumatic tire to a bicycle.
